Ashlar-Vellum™ Announces Cobalt™, Xenon™ & Argon™ v10

September 29, 2017, Austin, TX. Ashlar-Vellum announces the development and upcoming release of Cobalt, Xenon and Argon version 10, their 3D solid and surface modeling products on Mac and Windows.

All three of the products have the following enhancements in version 10:

- Support for the latest operation systems including Mac 10.13 High Sierra
- Support for the latest DXF/DWG up to AutoCAD 2018
- Various bug fixes
- Enhancements of existing features

Final release is schedule for mid-November. With an anticipated manufacturer's suggest retail price for US $145 for the upgrade from v9 to v10, Ashlar-Vellum is offering pre-release sales at $125 from now until release. Upgrades from Cobalt, Xenon or Argon v9 are also available. See their website for details. Those purchasing at pre-release are eligible for the beta program, which is particularly useful for those needing to run the software on Mac High Sierra immediately.

Robert Bou, Ashlar-Vellum's president, commented, "This is a smaller release with a lower price point."
